WHY THIS RISE?

It happens that two important announcements relating to the cost of the bread which the people in general need have been made within the past day or two. One told of the formation of a baking company under a New Jersey charter, which proposes to bake for the people of New York and immediate vicinity one million loaves of bread; the other is the advance of the May option on wheat to a fraction over $1.25 a bushel.

Some New York newspaper men who apprehended that the large baking company might be contemplating a monopoly through which the people of that town should be made to pay more for their bread than they have been accustomed to pay procured an interview with the president of the new corporation.

From him they are reported to have secured this information:

"If there is one crime on the calendar worse than another it is the cornering of foodstuffs, such as wheat, and I am in favor of the most stringent legislation against it. That the wheat market is being and has for some time been manipulated is known, but it should not be. The poor people are those who suffer, and I will cheerfully lead any movement to punish those who run the prices of foodstuffs up unnecessarily."

It is difficult to interpret this save as a disclaimer of intent to put up the price of the "staff of life," and to mean that it is the design of the bread maker to make a profit through large production rather than through advancing the price of his product.

The view he takes is creditable to him and is a very proper one. Surely there cannot be a greater crime than that of, through monopoly, raising the price of that necessity.

Unless wheat dealers err or misstate facts, however, the gentleman who inveighs against them and declares the rise in the price of wheat is due to manipulation, does them grave injustice. They claim that there is a scarcity of red winter wheat and that it is the natural demand which has caused the sharp advance in price.

The statement of these speculators, who, led by James A. Patten, have cornered the wheat market and thus far have seemingly gained many millions of dollars, hardly will be generally credited, although it may be fairly well based. It seems hardly possible that in view of the depression in business, the shrinking of the price of iron and steel, iron ore, lumber, copper and those other products which are accounted among the necessities when trade is normal, that wheat should rise so greatly in price.

Japan is cutting down war expenses, and this should induce Captain Hobson to take a milder view of the Pacific situation.

NEVER CLOSER THAN TODAY.

The German pressure brought to bear on Russia to procure her approval of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria to be quickly and even openly rewarded, for Austria, possessing but an inconsiderable port, does not need three Dreadnoughts for defensive purposes. The truth is, the three vessels will become practical additions to the German navy whenever that navy becomes hard-pressed. The alliance between Germany and Austria was never closer than it is today. Austria befriended Germany at Algiers; Germany came to Austria's support in the Balkan matter, and now it is Austria's turn, and she proposes to help Germany build a navy that can meet England on even terms on the seas.

It is not therefore surprising that England is showing hysteria over the possibility of invasion, and the booting of a rich land and of mighty London itself. The English people are deeply alarmed, and they see the Germans coming alike in airships and in Dreadnoughts. But an alarmed people generally becomes a well-prepared people, and the German-Austrian invasion may be postponed a hundred years or two. Russia will not always remain defenseless, and France still has to be reckoned with. And England's colonies are beginning to come to her assistance. New Zealand is to build a Dreadnought, and other colonies may do likewise. England is still on the map, and the Kaiser does not quite rule the world. There are other nations and other rulers.

ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE.

In the death of Algernon Charles Swinburne, which occurred at his home in Putney, England, on Saturday, we have another illustration of the ephemerality of fame; for, though, of course every one who reads had heard of Swinburne, a large element even of readers of current literature thought he was long since dead.

But at length, he has entered the "Garden of Proserpine," and in the words of his own deeply pagan, but nevertheless beautiful lines, it may be said of him:

"From too much love of living,

From Hope and Fear set free,

We thank with brief thanksgiving

Whatever gods may be,

That no life lives forever

That dead men rise up never,

That even the weariest river

Flows somewhere safe to sea."

Although possessing great talents as a poet, these were not always used to the best advantage, and in his works the humanity and sweetness which characterized Tennyson are lacking. Some of his volumes were so harshly criticised that they were withdrawn from circulation, but Swinburne never learned his lesson well. It was this defect in his works that prevented his being named as poet laureate, the place in which Alfred Austin now rattles around. Born in 1837, for years Swinburne was prolific, but little has come from his pen since the latter eighties. Besides being a poet of power, he also was an essayist of ability, his "studies" of Shakespeare, Ben Jonson and Victor Hugo being well known.

THAT NEW TARIFF BILL.

The House has passed a roughly drawn tariff bill that pleases neither the revenue people nor the protectionists. It is as unsymmetrical as a tariff bill could well be. It is, in fact, but raw material to be fashioned and remade in the Senate.

The consumers need not expect relief from taxation for the benefit of other persons at the hands of the Senate. They will get a free discussion of the issues involved and a free offering of amendments, but the Republican party and President Taft are plainly determined to pass a tariff bill that is in all essential particulars as onerous and unjust to consumers as the present Dingley bill.

In the House the Democrats did succeed in securing a roll-call upon a motion to recommit the Payne bill with fourteen instructions to amend it, and 162 Democrats out of 171 voted for it. The changes that the Democrats of the House demanded constitute an excellent platform to go to the country on next year and in 1912. They ask for a revenue tariff, for a graduated income tax, for free cotton bagging, for free tins, for free leather and shoes, for placing all trust-made articles on the free list, for a stamp tax on all sales of stocks and on futures of farm products, for American registry of all vessels owned by American citizens, for reduced rates on gloves and stockings, and for free agricultural implements.

At 80 years of age Gen. William Booth is still vigorous and full of fight. He combats the horned gentleman at every opportunity.

IMMENSE REVIEWING STAND

To Be Erected for the Twentieth of May Celebration—Committees Completing Their Programs.

Charlotte, N. C., April 13.—All committees of the Twentieth of May celebration, which is to be held in this city next month commemorating the signing of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, are rapidly completing their programs for the big event. The several parade committees, including the floral, the colonial and others, are making preparation for the most spectacular affair in the history of the city. The Daughters of the American Revolution, the Children of the Confederacy, the Colonial Dames and other historic organizations will participate in the procession. The chairman of the floral parade committee is anxious that all members of these organizations who do not live in Charlotte shall be present on "Taft Day" and take part in the parade.

Definite plans have been made to erect an immense reviewing stand on the Mecklenburg county courthouse grounds, from which President Taft and his party, including Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, will review the parade.

AROUND THE WORLD.

Another Record Breaking Cruise Is Soon to Be Inaugurated.

Baltimore, Md., April 14.—For the second time within the history of a century a representative of the United States revenue cutter service is to display the flag of that arm of our floating fighting forces on a world-encompassing tour.

The cutter "Tahomoe," Captain J. H. Quinn commander, which was recently completed for Puget Sound duty, is to perform this cruise.

The Tahomoe will sail direct to the Azores, then through the Suez canal to Manila, Yokohama and back to Puget Sound, travelling 18,000 miles in four months.

STRANGE LYNCHING.

Unknown Mob Unmasked Kill Negro Man Today in Georgia Town.

Shelburn, Ga., April 10.—A mob of four white men, unmasked, entered the home of Alfred Iverson, a negro, and shot him to death in the presence of his wife.

No reason is known for the unexplained outrage, and the negro's wife says she did not recognize any of the men and believes they came from some other section.

SIGNALLY HONORED.

Capt. S. Cohen has just been signally honored by being appointed State Secretary of the National Rifle Association of America for the State of North Carolina. The appointment was made by Gen. James A. Drain, of Washington, D. C., president of the Association, and one of the best known guardsmen and rifle shots in the country. The National Rifle Association numbers among its members some of the most prominent men of the country, among others, ex-President Roosevelt. We congratulate our young friend on the honor, which is indeed worthily bestowed.

WALTER NOTES.

Miss Charlie Becton is here on a visit to the family of her brother, Mr. Geo. L. Ecton.

Miss Annie Laurie Thompson of the family of Rosewood Academy went to Faison's Saturday afternoon to spend Easter at the home of her parents.

Miss Annie Yelverton, who has been on a visit to Miss Elizabeth Ecton, returned to her home at Stantonburg Monday.

Mr. Leland Becton, after spending Easter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Becton, returned to his duties at Wilmington Monday morning.

Miss Sallie Williams, of the Rosewood Academy faculty, spent Easter with friends and relatives at Benson and Newton Grove.

Prof. E. N. Thorne, principal of Rosewood Academy, spent Easter in Raleigh with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howell and Mr. and Mrs. Con Whittington, of Goldsboro, spent Monday here, where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Lon Dall and family, on a day's fishing on the banks of Little river.

Her many friends regret to know of the illness of Mrs. Jane Caldwell, at her home here, and wish for her an early restoration to health.

A baptizing at Hooks bridge last Sunday afternoon drew a large crowd there to witness the solemn ceremony. When Rev. J. M. Carraway, the faithful and beloved pastor of Pine Forest and Ebenezer churches, immersed four candidates for church membership. The candidates were Misses Bertha Howell and Ellen Brock and Messrs. Cliff Hollowell and Cyrus Johnson.

Invitations are out to the marriage of Mr. Richard Atkinson, of Charlotte, and Miss Sarah Pipkin, of our community, which happy event will be solemnized at Ebenezer Church on the evening of the 21st of this month. Immediately after the ceremony they will take the westbound train for their future home in Charlotte, carrying with them the abiding good wishes of hosts of friends.

Our farmers have about finished planting corn, and this week and next will be busy times with them getting the cotton crop planted.

The truckers were a little long-faced last week, when the cold threatened the bean crop, and while it was somewhat damaged, the crop has not suffered as much as was thought it would, during the extreme cold, and prospect for a fair crop is still good.

Sometime ago, while returning from Goldsboro, we overtook two parties in a cart who had lost everything they had except a half-gallon jug of the ardent, of which they had imbibed too freely. After restoring to them their possessions, which we had picked up in the road, one of the party remarked, "Aint that Dr. C.?" We replied, "Yes, what there is left of him." "Well, well," says he; do you remember me?" We told him that it seemed that his was a familiar physiognomy. "Yes," says he, "I know you know me. You paid attention to my health when you lived in our county, twenty years ago, and I shall never forget you." Oh, yes, we replied, we now have a very vivid recollection of you, and that which impresses the fact more fully on our memory is, we have failed to hear the clink of the coin as a more substantial evidence of your appreciation of our services during your long-continued fight for life. "Yes, sir," he replied, "you most certainly did save my life, and I shall never forget you." But we remarked, "You seem to have entirely separated from your memory that which would prove to us your high appreciation of our efforts in rescuing you from the grave." "Yes, sir," my memory has been mighty bad ever since, and I know I would have been in my grave if I hadn't been for you, and if I ever needs you, I shall send for you, and I want you to show me your respects, for I shall never forget you." They drove on, leaving us to meditate upon the difference between ingratitude and failure to fully realize one's moral obligations, as pertains to the business side of our profession.

WOODLAND CRUMBS.

The children had a grand time hunting Easter eggs at Brogden school house last Sunday evening.

It seems that on Monday last week the freight train going south about noon, strewn fire as it went. The fire raged before the strong wind for one or two miles, and destroyed much timber and cordwood. It burnt for more than two days. Again on Wednesday about noon the fire escaped from Robert Aldridge's field, entering the timbered land of J. S. Moore just above the Myrtle Springs. The clouds of smoke and the ringing of the farm bell brought the people together from miles around. The wind was very high and the grass and under brush was dry as tinder. It was soon found that the flames were reaching toward the homes of J. S. Moore, G. W. Price and T. L. Massey. All attempts to stop the current proved unavailing. We wish to return our heartfelt thanks to all who helped us in such a trying time.

The Friends' quarterly meeting will be held at Nahutta Church Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week. Mrs. Annie Edgerton Williams, who has spent five years in India as a missionary, is expected to be present.

We are glad to have these refreshing showers. After so much cold, windy weather.

Hurrah for the car line to Seven Springs! Won't we ride, though!

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

Pertinent to Passing Efforts and Expectancies.

It would be an act of kindness to those men who have been distanced in the judgeship race for the President to let them know it.

There is one thing Cannon's enemies cannot accuse him of, and that is not paying his friends for standing by him when he gets into a tight place.

The Republicans want Taft to eat his words and put Western District Republicans ahead of Eastern District Democrats in the race for the judgeship.

It is said the strain of his position is beginning to tell on Taft already. The Eastern District judgeship alone has been enough to upset the nerves of any ordinary man.

The postmaster at Spencer wants to swap that $1,500 job for the office of mayor of his town which pays a tenth as much salary. Will somebody explain that?

Roosevelt's first important act after leaving the American shores was to establish an Ananias Club for France, a Paris newspaper correspondent being the first man initiated.

Now that the charge of the Democratic brigade on the White House is over we suppose the President will be able to give attention to the selection of a man for judge of the Eastern District.

It's all nonsense to talk about Taft vetoing the tariff bill. It may not come to him in the shape he desires, but he will not dare to undo all the work of a three or four months' session of Congress.

Things are too quiet about the White House to suit the Washington people. They miss the donor and blitzen performances with which they were entertained during the seven years of Roosevelt's rule.

GEN. NEVINS AT BULL RUN.

Commander-in-Chief of G. A. R. Visits Famous Battlefield.

Manassas, Va., April 12.—Gen. Henry M. Nevins, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, is the guest of the Manassas Picket Post at the home of Lieut. Geo. C. Round. Today Gen. Nevins and other distinguished Union veterans visited the Bull Run battlefield, where luncheon was served in the famous old stone house which bears the marks of shot and shell from the contending forces in the days of '61.

Tomorrow Gen. Nevins, with Lieut. Round as special aide, will leave Manassas for Hampton, Va., where the Grand Army encampment of Virginia and North Carolina will meet on Wednesday.

Asheville, N. C., April 12.—A frightful murder was committed in the northern section of the city Saturday night about 12 o'clock, when John Babab Birchfield, in a drunken frenzy, and apparently without any cause or provocation, shot to death young Zeke Roberts, a son of Emmet Roberts, of this place.

MISSIONARY'S WIFE PRAISES CUTICURA

Daughter's Head Encrusted with Dandruff—Feared she Would Lose her Hair—Many Treatments were Futile—Baby had Milk-Crust.

BOTH CHILDREN CURED BY FAMOUS REMEDIES

"For several years my husband was a missionary in the Southwest, and we were living on the edge of the desert at an elevation of nearly five thousand feet. Every one in that high and dry atmosphere has more or less trouble with dandruff and my daughter's scalp became so encrusted with it that I was alarmed for fear she would lose all her hair, which was very heavy. After spending between five and six dollars for various remedies, in desperation I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. After rubbing the Cuticura Ointment thoroughly into the roots of the hair, I gently combed the crust of dandruff free from the scalp, and then gave her head a thorough shampoo with the Cuticura Soap. This left the scalp beautifully clean and free from dandruff, and after the hair was dry, I again rubbed the Cuticura Ointment, this time sparingly, into the roots, and I am happy to say that the Cuticura Remedies were a complete success. My troubles with dandruff were over, although for a long time afterward I used the Cuticura Ointment as at first, after shampooing, which kept the scalp and roots of the hair moist. I have used successfully the Cuticura Remedies for so-called 'milk-crust' on baby's head, and have never found anything to equal them. You are at liberty to publish this letter, for I do sincerely believe that the Cuticura Remedies are a blessing to mankind." Mrs. J. A. Darling, 310 Fifth St., Carthage, Ohio, Jan. 20, 1908.

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful curatives for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed, when necessary, by a mild dose of Cuticura Resolvent (liquid or pills) is often sufficient to afford immediate relief of itching, burning and scaly humors, eczema, irritations and inflammations, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

Sold throughout the world. Put on Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. 60¢ Mailed Free. Cuticura Soap on Skin Diseases.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

As a rule the more liberal the amount of these fertilizers used per acre, the better the results. Mr. John F. Cunningham of Cunningham, N. C., probably one of the largest tobacco growers in the world, says: "I have been using your fertilizer for twenty years. I have sold tobacco made by this fertilizer as high as 90c a lb. Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer is used by the best tobacco farmers in the Tobacco States. It stands upon its merits. There is no better fertilizer made or used in the United States. I take great pleasure in recommending it not only to the farmers of Virginia and North and South Carolina, but to all the tobacco growers in the Union."

The best results are invariably obtained with the use of Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer. Over one million tons were sold last year.

Be sure and get the 1909 Virginia-Carolina Farmers' Year Book from your fertilizer dealer, or write our nearest sales office and a copy will be sent free.
